Alcan Cable initiates drug testing program in Bay St. Louis plant

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A drug-testing program is under way for all employees of Alcan Aluminum Corporation's Bay St. Louis plant.

Reports of problems from both internal and external sources indicating situations existed and that problems may develop led to the instigation of the drug-testing program, according to Plant Manager Art Bush.

Discussion of the program with employees began in June 1986 to get their thoughts, input and suggestions, he continued.

"We are not trying to tell our employees how to live their lives but when they are here we expect them to be in a condition to function safely," Bush said.

"We have a legal and moral responsibility to employees and the community to provide a safe and healthy environment," he added.

"Our primary concern is safety of the employees and as in the case of any working industry the hazards cannot be erased," he said.

"Therefore we must have alert workers, fully capable to perform their duties in the plant," he added.

"We feel with this program we can continue to provide a safe environment and help the employees who may have a problem and need professional help," he said.

"We want to bring it to light if a person has a problem and help with resolving it," stated Larry Pruitt, employee relations manager.

"We implore anyone with a problem to come forward voluntarily and have asked this since early discussion of the program," he added.

One plus for this program is people with problems can get help and keep full employee status, Pruitt said.

Employees with a substance-abuse problem can get treatment from professionals and specialists while on a leave of absence from work under the short-term disability program, he said.

Bush said there was the normal amount of apprehension to the program due to national reports of people being falsely accused.

"But we searched the market extensively to find the agency with the tightest chain of testing to avoid any problems of this type," he added.

"Since the instigation of the program we have had an exceedingly high rate of validity," Bush said.

Pruitt said since the instigation of the program there have been cases detected and some employees have come forward voluntarily.

"But our numbers of employees with problems has been substantially less than the industry norm," he said.

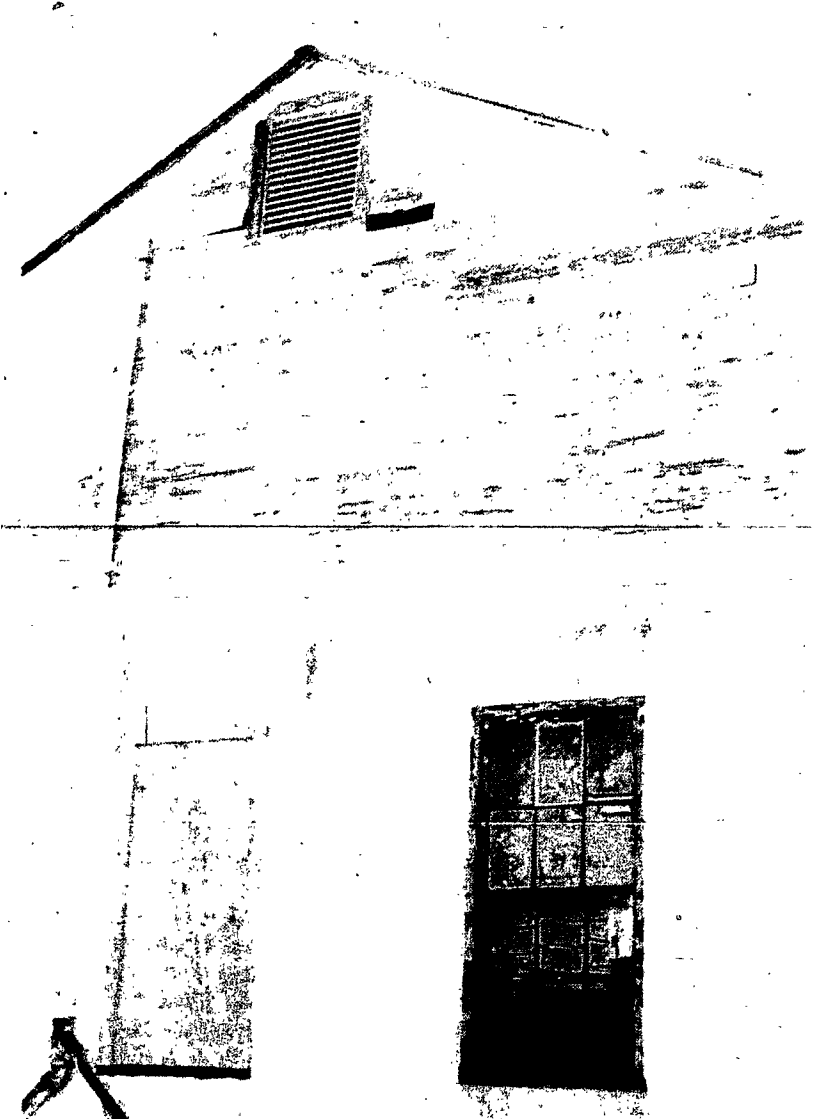

The program was officially put into effect in October 1986 and there has been a single testing of employees. Testing was done in late November and due to the various shifts approximately two-thirds of the work force was tested.

The test was conducted on a randomly-selected day with only Pruitt being aware of the date.

The next testing date will be selected by Bush.

In addition to the random testing all new employees will be tested, employees may be tested following accidents and on an as-needed basis.

This testing is being conducted division-wide in the Alcan corporation, with plants in Williamsport, Penn. and Sedalia, Mo. and headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. following the same program.

Supervisors awaiting plan for numbering, road naming

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors hopes to receive a Feb. 13 report on a plan for naming county roads and numbering structures.

The state legislature has mandated all Mississippi counties name any previously unnamed roads and provide a numbering system for all structures in the county, but the 1985 statute does not provide a method for implementation.

The board met Friday to discuss the matter with planning commission representatives, city officials and Bay St. Louis Postmaster Tom Hill.

In addition to Hill, the meeting included Gulf Regional Planning Commission Director James Head and staff members Bill Reed and Owen Price; South Mississippi Planning and Development District 911 Coordinator, Ronald Simms; Hancock County Tax Collector Edward Murtagh; Reappraisal Specialist Lee Bennett; Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr.; and Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and Ward One Council Representative Lisa Coward.

According to Board Attorney Gerald Gex, the meeting was called to find out if the two cities are involved in street numbering projects and to see if Murtagh and Bennett could handle the project through the county tax office.

Gex said Head had offered the board a proposal at a previous meeting and the supervisors had taken it under advisement. Head offered to collect the information from the cities and tax office, but the supervisors objected to Head's need of new aerial photographs for the county.

Both mayors stated that the cities are already numbered. Longo said Waveland numbers are assigned to lots rather than structures in order to provide numbers for new construction.

Frankiewicz said the city is not planning to renumber or rename any streets except in a few problem areas.

Both said they would be willing to assist the county with the project.

According to Gex, the county is also planning to implement an emergency system, which requires a numbering system to provide emergency agencies such as law enforcement and fire departments with geographical addresses.

Both mayors stated that the cities are already numbered. Longo said Waveland numbers are assigned to lots rather than structures in order to provide numbers for new construction.

County selects welfare site in hopes of obtaining grant

BY DENA BISNETTE
In hopes of obtaining grant funds, the Hancock County Board of Supervisors has tentatively approved a site for a new County Welfare Department building.

The unanimous approval of the board was given Friday with the contingency that the site, which is on part of the county property purchased for Hancock Medical Center, also be approved by the county's hospital board.

The site is located off Drinkwater and Green Meadow roads behind the Hancock Medical Center building and the supervisors want the hospital board's consent to make certain that locating the welfare office there would not interfere with the medical center's expansion.

Welfare Department Director Wallace Bradley said "he was extremely pleased" with the proposed location because much of the department's work is related to health services.

In addition, the site could be used as in-kind matching funds, improving the county's chance to obtain Community Development Block Grant funding.

Bradley said further discussion of the grant application is expected Monday, when South Mississippi Planning and Development District 911 Representative Kathy Moon is expected to address the supervisors.

Moon is assisting the county in its efforts to obtain the grant. The board also heard a report Friday from County Fire Marshall Jay Marsh, who inspected the present welfare office Thursday.

Marsh said the building, located on Necaise Avenue in a structure that Bradley said dates back to the 1900s, contains several violations of fire safety codes.

In addition to Marsh, inspections were conducted by County Sanitarian Louis Fernandez and Bay St. Louis City Building Inspector John Schott and City Electrical Inspector Henry Prevou, both of whom acted as independent consultants for the Welfare Department because their jurisdiction does not include county-owned buildings.

Bradley and department employee representatives have repeatedly requested that the supervisors provide new quarters, which has inadequate climate control, a leaky roof and generalized deterioration.

He said employee morale has been low because of the working conditions, but has picked up somewhat since the department learned of the grant possibility.

In addition to fire safety code violations, the inspectors found wiring problems, signs of vermin such as rats and roaches, no facilities for handicapped person such as ramps and special bathroom fixtures, unventilated space heaters, cracked walls and termite damage.

Bradley said the problems have existed for a long period of time and are due to the age of the building.

Some problems, like deteriorating ceilings that were damaged two years ago when pipes froze and then cracked, have been covered with paint but are still unsafe, the director added.

Hlass receives presidential award

Jerry Hlass, director of NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories, is the recipient of the President's Rank of Meritorious Executive for his distinguished management record which spans more than 30 years of service to the federal government.

Hlass received the award Jan. 28 at a ceremony held at the State Department in Washington, D.C. Keynote speaker for the event was Donald Regan, White House chief of staff, who spoke on behalf of President Reagan. The award was presented by Constance Horner, director of the Office of Personnel Management, and June G. Brown, NASA's associate administrator for management.

The presidential rank award is the highest award which may be given to a civil service employee. It is awarded by the President to career federal employees in the Senior Executive Service whose performance has been exceptional for a period of several years.

The meritorious executive award cites Hlass for successfully directing the various missions at NSTL since he was named director in September 1976.

His chief responsibility is to provide the facilities and technical support required for the Space Shuttle test program. Since the program began in 1975, all the main engines used in shuttle missions were certified for flight at NSTL and all performed successfully.

Also under his leadership, NSTL's Earth Resources Laboratory has become a nationally and internationally recognized center of excellence in remote sensing

Memorabilia from Challenger to be displayed at NSTL

JACKSON—Governor Bill Allain Wednesday was presented memorabilia from the Space Shuttle Challenger and announced the items will be permanently displayed in the Visitors Center at the National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

Major Tom Henricks, an astronaut with NASA in Houston, Texas, presented the items to the governor and the State of Mississippi on behalf of NASA in ceremonies at the State Capitol Wednesday.

Challenger items presented to the people of Mississippi by Major Henricks include a wooden plaque, an aluminum gold tone photo of the Challenger crew, a United States flag, a Mississippi flag and a crew patch. The Mississippi flag was aboard the ill-fated Challenger flight last year and was included in a container which was recovered after the accident.

In addition, Gov. Allain proclaimed Wednesday as National Teacher Day in Mississippi in honor of the anniversary of the Challenger flight, which included Christa McAuliffe, the nation's first teacher in space.

On hand for the declaration Wednesday were JoAnn Reid of Weir Attendance Center, one of Mississippi's Teachers in Space, and Carolyn Lott of Oak Grove High School in Lamar County, representing the state's other Teacher in Space, Connie Moore, who could not be present due to a schedule conflict.

"An entire nation mourned together last year following the Challenger disaster. We hope these items from NASA and the designation of National Teacher Day will be a reminder of the hope for technological advancement that the space program represents," Allain said.

"We are especially proud that we in Mississippi have a NASA facility in the National Space Technology Laboratories in Bay St. Louis. This facility and its employees make a great contribution to the space program."

Governor Allain said the Challenger memorabilia will be on display at the Visitors Center, which annually attracts more than 100,000 visitors. Jack Rogers, chief of engineering at NSTL, was on hand Wednesday to receive the items from Gov. Allain on behalf of NSTL.

Major Henricks, who was selected as an astronaut candidate by NASA in June 1985, completed a one-year training and evaluation program in June 1986, qualifying him for assignment as a pilot on future Space Shuttle flights. During his visit to Jackson Wednesday, Major Henricks addressed a joint assembly of the Mississippi Legislature and was honored by Gov. Allain with a reception in the Capitol.

In addition to the Challenger memorabilia, Major Henricks also brought a letter of greetings to the people of Mississippi from fellow Mississippian Dick Truly, who now heads the NASA Space Shuttle program.

Welfare Department is in need of a new home

At the Hancock County Welfare Department's building an accident is possibly waiting to happen.

The structure, first a building supply company in the early 1900's, then remodeled as a dairy creamery during the early 1940's is, as the old saying goes, 'falling apart at the seams'.

Wiring in the structure is old and dangerous. Several years ago we can recall one of the workers in the building had to repaint an automobile because sparks from the electrical system of the structure damaged the car.

Employees of the Welfare Department face the problems of a lack of heat in the winter and a lack of cooling in the summer because of the many drafts in the structure.

There was a time several years ago when there were poultry mites in the building because of pigeons in the attic.

There are holes in the exterior of the building and rats are frequent visitors to the Welfare building.

Many roaches of several varieties call the Welfare Department's building their home.

Plumbing in the building is very antique, water has to be left running during cold weather to keep the pipes from freezing.

The roofing on the building springs a new leak about every hard rain.

Visitors at the Welfare office have a very hard time finding a place to park, and the problems go on.

There is, for sure, the need for a new Welfare Office in Hancock County.

We have received several telephone calls about residents spotting pelicans along our beach.

We, ourselves have spotted several in recent weeks and this is sure a good sign.

I can recall in my early years the numerous numbers of pelicans on our beach and would enjoy watching their fishing techniques.

I have also visited several times sand beaches in the Louisiana Marshes covered with nesting pelicans.

As most of you know, pesticides caused the destruction of the water birds in our area.

The clean-up efforts of governmental agencies are now beginning to pay dividends and it is hoped our beaches will again be the home for hundreds of pelicans like in days gone by.

It is good to see the parking lots and driveways at the Hancock Medical Center being surfaced.

Wet weather has been delaying the paving in recent weeks.

The new facility should be opening soon.

Congratulations are in order for Jerry Hlass upon his receiving the President's Rank of Meritorious Executive for his distinguished record as federal employee.

The presentation was made Thursday at the State Department in Washington, D.C.

Hlass, the director of NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories, received the award from Constance Horner, director of the Office of Personnel Management, and June G. Brown, NASA's associate administrator for management.

Under Hlass' leadership, great strides have been made at NSTL.

It is a great honor for someone we know to receive the highest award for a civil service employee.

Congratulations again, Jerry.

On Friday afternoon Michele Leigh Reynolds was selected as Miss Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Michele is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Reynolds, and a senior at Our Lady Academy.

Miss Reynolds will be representing the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce at many functions during 1987.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

If it concerns you, it concerns us

Shieldsboro trash littering neighborhood

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis
Dear Editor:

I have put off writing this letter for some time but it has gotten bad enough to do something about.

Some of the shopkeepers in the "Shieldsboro Shopping Center" are not being considerate of their neighbors in the North Bay Apartments directly in back of their building.

We are constantly picking up their trash and garbage that finds its way onto our property. It's disgusting to look at to say the least.

The owners of North Bay Apartments have spoiled to the store owner, especially, to do something about his garbage and trash but it has done no good. He piles it up in plastic bags and boxes for the wind, dogs and trash collectors to scatter all over our side of the property.

We are tired of picking up styrofoam containers and other trash. The back of our apartments looks like a garbage dump. (I have pictures to prove it.)

I have spoken to Mayor Frankiewicz and Mr. Johnson in Supervisor Lander's office and to Mr. Artigues, the owner of the center. They all promise to talk to these shopkeepers but it has been to no avail.

Isn't there a law in this county that forbids littering? If not whatever happened to old fashioned respect for the other person's property?

Sincerely,
Residents in North
Bay Apartments

Area resident protests animal exploitation

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

Wish to protest the recent bear wrestling contest held in Harrison County. Hope such acts of animal exploitation on the Coast stop no matter which organization sponsors it.

As a teenager we held greased pig-catching contests with football homecomings. Guess I never stayed around long enough after the event to see some of the pigs bleeding from the nose and mouth, having trouble breathing due to broken ribs, or go into shock and die from internal injuries. Such a price to pay for some husky jock to prove his manhood in the name of entertainment.

Enclosed is a handout which was given to our members at a recent meeting of the Hancock County Humane Society. We reaffirm our commitment to the importance of humane education. Please invest in kindness and join your local humane society.

ANIMAL EXPLOITATION EVENTS

Obvious animal abuse spectacles (as greased pig-catching contest, donkey basketball, rodeos and wrestling bears) are often conducted to raise funds for worthy charities or to provide entertainment at community fairs, festivals, and schools.

Sponsors might think twice if they were aware of the suffering they sanctioned. It is up to activists to educate organizers and participants and spectators to the cruelties inherent in such activities.

The following suggestions might stop such exploitative practices in your community before they begin:

1. Find out about events as early as possible. Watch advertisements, event listings in the paper and radio announcements. Earlier opposition expressed - the greater the chance of cancelling the event.
2. Complete information on event by calling sponsors, local officials, or chamber of commerce.

Learn the following:

- * Sponsor's name and address

- * Other participants and addresses
- * Date and time of event
- * Location and owner of property
- * Type and number of animals involved
- * Where animals obtained
- * Exactly how animals will be used
- * What will become of animals after the event

3. Before initiating a protest, find out if the event violates local or state anti-cruelty laws. Check with state game agencies to see if species involved is protected by law.

4. Use friendly persuasion. Be willing to visit sponsor personally to express your concerns.

5. If friendly persuasion is not effective, draft a letter of protest to the sponsor. It should contain the following:

- * date, time, place, and type of event scheduled
- * statement of your organization's opposition to the event based upon possible violations of the law, danger to human participants, and/or possible cruelty to animals from stress and abuse.
- * Strong request that sponsor cancel event or consider another activity in its place.
- * Specific request for a prompt answer.

6. Send copies of the letter to other important contacts e.g. local news media, government officials, control officers, game wardens. Send a copy to the president of any parent organization sponsoring or benefiting from the event.

7. If the sponsor does not back down, personally contact TV and newspaper reporters. Request they run a story and express how such events needlessly cause harm for the expressed purpose of entertaining humans.

8. If the event is carried out, organize pickets to protest. Pickets tend to both attract the news media and reduce the number of participants. Check local ordinances pertaining to demonstrations before taking this action.

Extra Exemptions Lower Taxable Income, IRS Says

When figuring the amount of tax owed on a tax return, one factor which comes into play is the number of exemptions which can be taken. An exemption is a set amount which is deducted from your adjusted gross income in figuring taxable income, the Internal Revenue Service explains.

The regular exemption for 1986 is $1,080, and is allowed for the taxpayer, his or her spouse, and his or her dependents.

In addition, there are exemptions for age and blindness. The age and blindness exemptions may be claimed only for the taxpayer and his or her spouse, not for a dependent. A taxpayer who is 65 or older by the end of the year is allowed an additional exemption of $1,080. Taxpayers are considered 65 on the day before their 65th birthday.

Taxpayers are allowed an additional exemption of $1,080 for blindness if they are blind at the close of the tax year. A person is considered blind, for tax purposes, if the central visual acuity does not exceed 20/200 in the better eye with corrective lenses or the field of view is no greater than 20 degrees.

Taxpayers who desire additional information on the subject of exemptions should use the mail-order form in their tax packages to request the free IRS Publication 501, Exemptions.

Safety Commissioner requests seat belt law

Mississippi Commissioner of Public Safety James L. Roberts Jr. has formally requested that the 1987 Legislative Session pass a mandatory seat belt law.

In a letter to leaders of the house and senate, Roberts outlined three issues which he said would be supported by the Department of Public Safety if included in the mandated seat belt legislation. He requested that the legislation:

Make a violation of such a law a primary offense, meaning that a driver observed by a law enforcement officer to be driving without his seat belt fastened may be issued a citation;

Provide for a reasonable/suitable fine/or punishment; and,

Provide for the general enforcement thereof by all professionally certified state, county, and municipal law enforcement officers.

"In my opinion, anything less than the above would doom the legislation to less than complete success," he wrote.

"We firmly believe that the regular and habitual use of seat belts by the motoring public will significantly enhance safety on Mississippi's highways, roads, and streets, and we strongly urge your favorable consideration of responsible legislation," Roberts said.

"The mandated use of seat belts is one of those enhanced safety measures which would significantly benefit the motoring public and all our citizens; its time has come," the commissioner added.

In addressing the issue that opponents of seat belt legislation have expressed regarding such a mandatory law infringing on an individual's rights, Roberts said, "As a citizen of this state, public official, and attorney, I shall always strongly support the concept of individual liberty and freedom, but I am firmly convinced that the safety needs of our society as a whole considerably outweigh the individual's freedom of liberty in this particular situation."

"If such were not true, motorists might just as well choose to drive on the wrong side of the road, drive without headlights at night, or engage in countless other acts of ridiculous foolishness which would jeopardize the lives and property of all other motorists," Roberts explained.

He said that when the Department of Public Safety was created in 1933,

Mississippi had approximately 200,000 vehicles, and approximately 250,000 Mississippians were licensed to drive. The death rate on Mississippi's highways today per 100 million miles driven has declined considerably and is now approximately 3.5.

Roberts believes the decline in the death rate on Mississippi's highway since 1933 "reflects all the advances in traffic safety and enforcement through the years, particularly in light of the increase in population and number of vehicles."

"Unfortunately," the letter said, "the recent increase we have seen in fatalities and injuries reflects, I think, the need for still more enhanced safety measures and a commensurate financial commitment for enforcement personnel and equipment."

Roberts said he has received copies of resolutions from the Mississippi Association of Chiefs of Police and the Board on Law Enforcement Officer Standards and Training supporting the mandatory use of seat belts.

Head has stated some of the information obtained during the numbering project could be useful for the reappraisal department.

The board has asked Bennett, Murtagh and Head to try to work out a cooperative method for completing the project.

In addition, the board has asked Murtagh and Bennett to consider making the project an in-house operation if possible to save funds.

Head's price for the project is $38,000, including new aerial photographs.

Murtagh, however, said his department could offer the same information offered by aerial photographs and such photographs are usually outdated by the time they are processed.

He also stated other tax office projects, such as landfills and reappraisals, have deadlines the same or nearly the same as the numbering project and making the numbering an in-house operation might necessitate hiring additional personnel in Bennett's section.

In other business Friday, the supervisors:

—Agreed to allow Beat Four Supervisor Sam Bernier to hire a foreman to replace the late Curtis Bobinger;

—Authorized use of the back section of the County Fairgrounds property for youth soccer games at the request of Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca;

—Authorized Travirca to negotiate with architect Donald D. Leopard regarding plans for installation of climate control and renovations at the fairgrounds building;

—Agreed to request a local and private bill to amend the original local and private bill that financed the fairgrounds to cover the building improvement costs;

—Authorized Travirca to take charge of maintenance and inventory at the Hancock General Hospital building after Hancock Medical Center opens and until the hospital building can be sold;

—Approved a request from the city of Waveland for assistance with a drainage project near the intersection of Highway 603 and Longfellow Drive;

—Approved a commendation for Clermont Harbor Youth Corps, a volunteer organization working on a community clean-up project, at the request of Beat One Supervisor Bert Courge; and —Agreed to purchase a used underground gasoline storage tank for Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

The supervisors meet again at 9 a.m. Monday in the courthouse boardroom.

Elementary. The Waveland school would be enlarged to handle the additional population.

The present cost estimate is $3.2 million to $3.5 million for the entire program, Oge said.

Better cost estimates are expected to be provided by March 18, a deadline the board has set for completion of the public comment period and putting the plan in its final form.

The plan is designed to rid the district of overcrowding problems in three of the four existing schools and bring fifth-graders who are attending classes at the leased St. Rose de Lima Center back to district property.

The district had looked into the possibility of buying the school, which belongs to the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi, but the owners were not interested in selling the facility.

Most of the negative comments about the proposal dealt with past performance of the school board, possible tax increases related to the building program and the possibility that delays in the program could occur.

The tax question was answered by Bay St. Louis City Clerk Edward Favre, who said that there is presently millage being assessed to pay off shortfall loans to the district.

Some of that millage is scheduled to be reduced next year as the loans are paid, and could be left on to cover the bond issue.

If the cost estimate is correct, the actual amount of millage could be less than that now being assessed for the loans, Favre added.

The 7-12 concept met with mixed response, with critics objecting to the possibility of having too wide an age range between the oldest children on campus and the youngest children.

Proponents said the 7-12 concept makes curriculum coordination easier and offers more resources to the child since all the teachers are on one campus.

Two people asked the board to consider consolidation with the Hancock County School District before entering a building program.

Preliminary site plans by project architect Fred Wagner are on display in the superintendent's office, and Oge invited the public to view the plans in addition to submitting written or oral comment.

Diboll said the March 18 deadline was set to allow the district to get the project started as soon as possible while also permitting the public a reasonable amount of time for input.

"We want to move as fast as we can," Diboll said. "It has been, in the experience that I've had with this school district, that we talk a lot and don't do too much. That is changing."

The award further recognizes Hlass for supporting the programs of the 17 other federal agencies engaged in oceanography and environmental sciences which are in residence at NSTL through inter-agency agreements with NASA.

Before coming to NSTL, Hlass served as director of Space Shuttle facilities with responsibility for planning and implementing all ground facilities required in the development, test, manufacture, launch and landing of the Space Shuttle vehicle.

During the mid-1960s, he was the project manager responsible for the timely and cost-effective construction of NSTL, then named the Mississippi Test Facility. He successfully accomplished this assignment, which was critical to achieving the presidential commitment to land men on the moon.

Hlass was presented the presidential rank of meritorious executive in 1980 by President Carter and has received numerous citations and commendations throughout his NASA career.

He received a bachelor of mechanical engineering degree from North Carolina State University in Raleigh and a master of engineering administration degree from George Washington University in Washington, D.C. He is a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers and is on the board of governors for the National Space Club.

A resident of Long Beach, Hlass is married to the former Helen Diller of Arlington, Va., and they have two children, George and Lisa.

Lady Raiders capitalize on defense, down opponents 33-6

RAIDER SHOOT—Coast Episcopal High School Raider Keith Ott (33) shoots in a match this week with Marrero Christian Academy in New Orleans. Teammate Chris Riggs (12) is on hand to provide assistance. The Raiders were defeated 35-19.

The Coast Episcopal High School Raiders girls and boys basketball teams traveled Wednesday to New Orleans and split a doubleheader with Marrero Christian Academy.

The boys team lost 35-19, however, the girls played an excellent defensive game and beat their rival 33-6.

The boys team again played an excellent first half and had the lead 12-11. Keith Ott was the driving force in the middle, scoring 6 first half points. Marrero's zone press in the second half frustrated the Raiders' ball control game causing numerous turnovers.

Marrero scored 24 second-half points to seven points for the Raiders. Keith Ott was high point man with 10 points, followed by Chris Riggs with five, Brandon Smith, two, and Billy Gulce, two.

The Lady Raiders played an excellent game overall on offense and defense, continually taking advantage of their height in the middle and an aggressive half court zone press to throttle their opponent by 33-6.

Most of the girls reached the scoring column with Katherine Smith having 18 points off of driving lay-ups and offensive tip-ins. Margaret Murdock had four points and Melissa Catron, Leah Salsbury, Sharon Orlin, Lauren Gipson, and Angel Puckett with two points each. Kristin Catron rounded out the offensive display with one point.

The next home game for the Coast Episcopal Raiders is Friday, Feb. 13, against the Calvary Christian School of New Orleans. All home games are played in the Long Beach Junior High gym at 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

KATHERINE SMITH of the Coast Episcopal High School Lady Raiders basketball team goes for a free one in Wednesday's match with Marrero Christian Academy in New Orleans. Smith was the leading scorer for the Lady Raiders, gaining 18 points in the game. In an overwhelming win, the Lady Raiders outscored their opponents 33-6.

'Speaking Oracles of God'

—1 Peter 4:11

By W. Edwin Kearley, Minister

THE PRESENT DANGER OF UNBELIEF

The author of the book of Hebrews urges, "Let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, anyone of you should seem to come short of it." (Hebrews 4:1) The fear of which the writer speaks is the fear of losing eternal life. Though hope is built on a promise, one might not meet the conditions of the promise.

Those to whom the Hebrew letter was written had obeyed the first conditions of the promise. In chapter 6 and verses 1 and 2, they were told, "Therefore leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works and faith toward God, of the doctrine of baptisms..."

Jesus stated, "I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins." (John 8:24) All obedience is built on faith. Faith leads to repentance. (Luke 13:3)

Faith causes one to confess his faith before men. (Romans 10:9-10) Faith prompts one to be buried with his Lord in baptism (Mark 16:16; Acts 2:38; Acts 22:16; Romans 6:3-4; Galatians 3:26-27; 1 Peter 3:21) The Lord adds the saved to the church. (Acts 2:47)

There were some who had heard the gospel preached, but it did not have the desired effect. "...but the word preached unto them did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it." (Hebrews 4:2)

Hearing the gospel is essential to salvation, but if the hearer does not allow the gospel to produce faith in the message of the gospel, the hearer does not profit.

There is a rest for those who believe. "For we which have believed do enter into rest, as he said, as I swear in my wrath, if they shall enter into my rest; although the words were spoken unto the foundation of the world." (Hebrews 4:1)

The author speaks of the rest in the present tense. The faith is a comprehensive faith. It includes obedience. It is certainly more than mental assent that God is one. James says, "The devils believe and tremble." (James 2:19)

This faith is a willingness "to be ready to every good work." (Titus 2:13)

The Jews as a whole did not believe the gospel of Christ. Our author stated, "...and they to whom it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief." (Hebrews 4:6)

On the day the gospel was first preached, 3,000 responded in obedience. The church grew and multiplied. (Acts 5:14; Acts 6:7)

On Paul's first missionary journey, there was opposition from the Jews. "Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold and said, it was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken unto you; but seeing ye put it from you, judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles." (Acts 13:46)

The book of Hebrews was written to Christians of Jewish descent. They were in danger of apostasy from Christ back to Moses. This condition of was an immediate danger (2:1), based upon unbelief (3:12), conduct (5:12-14), neglect of public worship (10:25), weakness in prayer (12:12), instability in doctrine (13:20), refusal to teach others (5:12), neglect of the scriptures (2:1).

Our author called upon them to let their hearts be tender to the message of God. "Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, to-day, after so long a time; as it is said, today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." (Hebrews 4:11)

We must labor therefore in the vineyard of God, to the Ephesians Paul wrote, "For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works." (Ephesians 2:10)

The phrase "labor" after the same example as "abstain" refers to statements in the Hebrews chapter. "Wherefore the Holy Ghost saith, today if ye will hear my voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness, when your fathers tempted me, proved me, and say my words are vain." (Hebrews 3:7-8)

As the children of Israel fell, as Christians can fall, we must not allow our hearts to be hardened, as they were, for we are called to labor in our faith. We do not stand still.

The exhibition will open with a public reception to meet the artist on Saturday, Feb. 7, from 6 to 8 p.m. Thomas Whitworth joined the UNO Fine Arts faculty as assistant professor of photography last Fall. He received his M.F.A. from Art Institute of Chicago in 1986 and was a member of the faculty of Herron School of Art in Indianapolis before coming to New Orleans.

His photographs have been included in exhibitions at Indianapolis Museum of Art, Phoenix Art Museum, Contemporary Arts Center in Cincinnati, and Indianapolis Center for Contemporary Art.

"Rhetorical And Other Questions" will be Mr. Whitworth's first one-man exhibition in New Orleans. Works shown will include photographs taken over the last six years and will represent two major approaches: a pseudoscientific method of image gathering and a manipulated and physically-altered form of image representation. The Fine Arts Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 8 to 4:30. For more information, call 226-6493.

GOOD NEWS FOR PEOPLE WHO EAT.

Every time you turn around, someone is telling you what not to eat. So don't turn the page. This news is very juicy.

It's steak, for instance. And lamb chops. Ham, veal, roast pork and hot dogs. They're okay. Even if you're watching fat and cholesterol, as long as you enjoy them in moderation in a balanced diet.

The real news is that meat is 10% to 25% leaner than ever. So an average

3-ounce serving has only a little more than 200 calories, just about 5 grams of saturated fat, and (surprise!) about the same cholesterol as roast chicken without the skin. And meat is one of the best sources going for protein, iron and B-vitamins.

So relax. Beef, lamb, pork and deli meats can be part of a good healthy diet. Especially the part that tastes good.

MR. AND MRS. WALTER JOSEPH GEX IV

Guterrez-Ziegeler

MR. AND MRS. DIEGO FERNANDO GUTIERREZ

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church was the setting for the January 3 marriage of Sandra Kay Ziegeler and Diego Fernando Guterrez. The Reverend Monsignor James McGough officiated at the afternoon double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton B. Ziegeler of Waveland. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Luis A. Gutierrez of Beckley, W. Va.

Nuptial music was presented by organist Mrs. John McKenna and soloist Mrs. Alan Noonan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza over satin featuring an off-the-shoulder yoke of illusion and high neckline accented with schiffli lace motifs. A fitted bodice and bishop sleeves with long lace cuffs accented the gown, and were highlighted with silk venise lace motifs encrusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. A full skirt complemented to a wide ruffle edged in lace extended into a cathedral length train.

She wore a ring of silk orange blossoms and pearls with attached veil of illusion, and a family heirloom necklace of antique pearls and amethyst.

The bride carried a cascade of white roses, miniature carnations, stephanotis and rose alstroemeria with English ivy.

Kathy Ziegeler, sister-in-law of the bride, of Waveland was matron of honor.

Anita Gutierrez of Beckley, W. Va., sister of the groom, was bridesmaid.

Alicia Ziegeler of Waveland, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants wore formal gowns of dusty pink silk jersey with high neckline, sheer lace V-insert at the bodice and attached organza shoulder cape. The flower girl wore a dusty pink taffeta gown accented with lace.

They carried nosegays of white roses, stephanotis, miniature carnations and rose alstroemeria.

tions and rose alstroemeria, and the flower girl carried a basket of identical flowers.

Luis A. Gutierrez served his son as best man.

Groomsman was David Ziegeler of Bay St. Louis, brother of the bride.

Ushers were Wesley Ziegeler of Waveland and John Ziegeler of Columbia, S. C., brothers of the bride.

Sean Ziegeler of Waveland, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mrs. Ziegeler chose for her daughter's wedding a sky blue dress with pleated skirt and dropped waist. The groom's mother chose a royal blue dress with sequined neckline and waist.

A reception followed the ceremony at Virginia Hall, where the groom's family presented guests with hand-made wedding favors from Ecuador.

On return from a wedding trip to the Ozark Mountains, the couple resides in Omaha, Neb.

Gex-Henry

North Oxford Baptist Church was the setting for the December 13 marriage of Della Catherine Henry of Oxford and Walter Joseph Gex IV of Bay St. Louis. The Reverend Lloyd Humphrey, pastor, and the Reverend Merrill Schmitt officiated at the evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peyton Henry of Oxford. The groom's parents are United States District Judge and Mrs. Walter Joseph Gex III of Bay St. Louis.

Nuptial music was presented by Mr. Harry White, alto saxophone; Mr. Tom Bryant, pianist; Mrs. Fay Minton, organist; and Miss Kim Griffing and Mr. Kirby Ladner, soloists.

A focal point of the church decor was a thirty-foot tree covered in tiny white lights. At the tree base, yet elevated above the chancel, a large bough of red anthuriums and waxed ti leaves centered the railing above the choir. Graduating lengths of ivory cathedral tapers laced with waxed magnolia and assorted holiday greenery flanked either side.

A dozen graduating cathedral tapers with seasonal greenery achieved an altar effect below the bough of anthuriums. Matching cascading anthurium on either side of the candle cluster completed the setting for the candlelight ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory Victorian satin, fashioned with high jeweled neckline. The fitted bodice was of french re-embroidered Alencon lace, featuring ornate, delicate hand beading of seed pearls and iridescents. Long slender leg-o-mutton sleeves were fashioned with lace inserts, and the full skirt was adorned with beaded Alencon lace V-shaped appliques. The chapel length train was enhanced with Alencon lace flowerette making a large V-point pattern.

The bride wore a tiara of celestial beading and Alencon lace which held a cluster of fifteen tiers of illusion framing her face. A single tier of illusion extended to cathedral length.

She carried a crescent bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and clusters of seed pearls, which complemented her original headpiece.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Debra Henry. Bridesmaids were Chafila Henry, sister of the bride; Lanna Brown and Mary Youngblood of Jackson, Miss.; Nancy Welch of Dallas, Tex.; Mary Morgan, Donna Medley and Kristy Henry, cousin of the bride, all of Oxford; Kay Sharp of Gadsden, Ala.; Rachel Farmer of Atlanta, Ga.; sister of the groom; and Stephanie Lawson of Martinsville, Va.

The attendants were attired in tea length gowns of velvet, each fashioned with off-the-shoulder banded yoke and fitted, dropped waistline. Miss Sunny Young of Memphis was flower girl.

The Honorable Walter J. Gex III served his son as best man.

Groomsman were Bryan Farmer of Atlanta, Ga., brother-in-law of the groom; David Bass and Kyle Gordon, both of Jackson; Butch Newman of Newton, Miss.; Laddie Renfro of Nashville, N. H.; Greg Evans of Cleveland, Miss.; Kenny Johnston and Andy Elchos of Bay St. Louis; Walter Billups of Pass Christian, cousin of the groom; and Junior Rodgers of Winona, Miss.

Ushers were Cap Henry, brother of the bride; Jeff Rutherford of Bay St. Louis; Ty Pittman of Marks, Miss., cousin of the bride; Jean Paul Gentlemen of Memphis; and James Sikes of Mobile.

Ring bearer was Ryan Newman of Newton.

Mrs. Henry chose for her daughter's wedding an intermezzo length gown of sparkling taupe silk, featuring bateau neckline and long cuffed sleeves, with a slender fitted skirt.

Mrs. Gex was attired in a mid-night wine velvet suit. Topping the tea length circular skirt was a fitted matching jacket, accented with a white Victorian heirloom blouse. The fitted bodice featured a hand-made bobbin lace collar and three-quarter length sleeves. A moire belt adorned with seed pearls completed her ensemble.

A reception followed the ceremony at the University Inn Ballroom.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the couple resides in Oxford.

FEEDING WILD BIRDS

Most people feed birds through the winter months. Personal satisfaction comes not only from attracting good numbers of birds, but also because winter feeding helps birds survive the rigors of cold, icy and snowy weather.

Actually, feeding birds year-round is enjoyable. There are many kinds of feeds available to attract birds. You can buy mixes or single types of feeds at supermarkets, livestock feed stores, garden supply stores or through catalogs.

The type of mix you put out influences the number and variety of birds that will use feeding places. By presenting foods known to attract the birds you want to see, you will attract desired species and your feeder may be less attractive to unwanted birds such as starlings.

Having attractive bird feeders on hand is of course most important, but placement of those feeds is important too. Just as birds vary in size, shape, color, song and preferred foods, so do birds differ in feeding behavior.

Some birds feed almost exclusively in trees, others nearly always on the ground, and others are opportunists, feeding wherever they can find acceptable food. Using a variety of feeders makes good sense.

4-H members from Hancock County enrolled in the 4-H wildlife project have studied the feeding habits of many birds native to our area. If you would like more information on feeding birds, contact the county Extension office of a 4-H wildlife project member.

Dr. Marc A. Forman, Director of Child Psychiatry, Tulane University Hospital

"A child can suffer the same emotional disorders adults feel. Behavior problems may be more than just 'a phase.' We try to untie the knots in a young life and help restore family harmony."

A child's behavior problems at home and school may be caused by depression and anxiety — over a divorce, a death, or a learning disability. The child may not be able to "grow out of it" without expert help.

Pediatric specialists worldwide study texts on child psychiatry written by Dr. Marc Forman. As an authority on child and adolescent emotional problems, he heads the only accredited child psychiatry training program in Louisiana.

When parents bring a troubled youngster for counseling at Tulane's Morris Kirshman Psychiatric Clinic, a team of specialists first gives the patient a thorough evaluation to pinpoint the source of the disturbance. Then the team applies the most effective treatment from the multitude of advanced therapies that a university medical facility makes possible. Parents are given special counseling along with the child. Sometimes a child's problem is overwhelming enough to require hospitalization. The Children's Neuropsychiatric Unit at Tulane provides a closely-monitored environment with one-to-one attention from nurses and therapists trained to help the child cope with the outside world. As part of Tulane University Hospital and Medical Group, the children's psychiatric inpatient and outpatient facilities continue a 150-year-old tradition of medical leadership at Tulane Medical Center. For more information, call 584-2300.

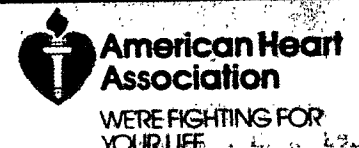

Exhibit highlights Black History Month

Gulf Islands National Seashore will highlight Black History Month with a showing of the traveling exhibit entitled: "Black Woman Achievements Against the Odds." Superintendent Jerry Eubanks announced.

The exhibit will be on display at the William M. Colmer Visitor Center in Ocean Springs, Mississippi from Feb. 1-14, 1987, 8 a.m. to p.m., daily.

The exhibit features a host of black women, including abolitionist Sojourner Truth and writer Nikki Giovanni, whose plight of per-stance against oppression led to their many achievements in a variety of fields. "This exhibit, organized by the Smithsonian Institute, is one example of the Seashore's ongoing Equal Opportunity program, which strives to further educate the park employees, as well as the local and visiting public, about the rich and valuable histories comprising our cultural heritage," said Eubanks.

For more information on this exhibit and other park programs featured during the month of February, please call the Visitor Center at (601) 875-9057.

If Peoples Federal Savings

STATEMENT OF CONDITION

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To Our Customers:

1986 was a very productive year for Peoples Federal Savings. And interest rates fell to the lowest level in eight years. Our association grew to fifty-nine million dollars in assets and added approximately eight hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars to our reserves. This is a 28 % increase in net worth over 1985.

We are hopeful 1987, with the lowest interest rates this decade, will encourage and stimulate the mortgage market and our economy. On behalf of our directors, officers and employees thank you for your loyal support.

Sincerely,
David A. Treutel,
President

WEEKLY SPECIALS WILL DRIVE YOUR TOTAL FOOD COSTS HIGHER.

Take a look at the other weekly supermarket specials in this newspaper. And remember: for every low price listed, there's a much longer list of prices they had to keep high to pay for them.

The New Delchamps doesn't have weekly specials. Instead, we have Everyday Minimum Pricing—pricing that's absolutely lower on every item. Every day. So you get the minimum total food bill every week.

3. TO WIN: $1,000, $2,000 cash and the $5,000 Dream Package games play just like regular bingo; complete a row down, across or diagonally.
To win $500 special, collect all seven markers that make up our slogan. "We do everything special especially for you!"
If a marker reads, "You Win $2!" or "You Win $1!" simply present the marker and collect your prize immediately from any authorized store personnel upon verification.

Potential winners of $1,000, $2,000 cash and $5,000 Dream Package games must submit prize claim materials to sponsor for verification. Once the submitted prize claim has been verified by sponsor, the prize will be awarded. All game materials submitted for verification become the property of the game sponsor and cannot be returned. All liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prizewinner. Any prizes not claimed will not be awarded.
5. All game materials will be rejected and judged VOID if not obtained from, and
